What is the long term solution then? Clearly its not: placating the drug lobbies, slowly enabling drug use through policies, cucking the cops and telling them to stand off: maybe the solution is just letting the homeless/drug using population (largely the same cohort) just overdose on fentanyl, and cease their suffering

The homeless problem largely started when asylums were closed en masse in the 80s. You could try and bring them back but I suspect it would end up being impossible to fund. Euthanasia is technically a potential solution in the more extreme cases but that's a non-starter in the realm of public opinion. Really it's just a symptom of larger societal problems and you likely won't be able to find a silver bullet solution without expanding the scope just beyond homeless drug addicts. If that's not possible then the best solution is to bus them to California and let someone else deal with it.

 >maybe the solution is just letting the homeless/drug using population (largely the same cohort) just overdose on fentanyl, and cease their suffering
 That just tends to increase crime and fuck the area up, over policing where they make being homeless a de facto crime tends to push the homeless out but usually into just other nearby cities. I lived in one city that had an interesting and effective system that while morally unethical worked: it was more or less illegal to sleep outside but the two homeless shelters charged roughly $20 a day so the homeless who weren't beggars, junkies, or criminals were forced to work. The thing is no one would hire a homeless person but they could work as a laborer and make $35 a day if they agreed to rather twisted terms of a local labor staffing firm that was mostly used by public offices in order to get basically free labor. 12 hour long shifts picking up trash for the government so you can have a spare 15 bucks will motivate you real quick to figure something out.

so a small minority of the scum would work and produce a sustainable living however, there is still a significant amount of the population who live in homeless camps, who just want to use drugs and live off scraps to survive. Why not enable this behavior and give them pharmaceutical-grade opioids that cause an overdose? They want to die anyway, and death is the only real cessation of suffering there is. Well you can't just give them random drugs because then it will just be re-purposed and sold further making the issue worse (not to mention the astronomical short and long term medical costs). Those camps and the crimes exist no matter what system, even the one I mentioned that actually does exist and there's no getting around it short of actual death squads. I can't tell if you're trying to be edgy or just extremely naive.

>Part of the problem is most cities send their homeless to cities like seattle.

It's less so cities sending them to seattle and more so that seattle is just so much easier for homeless vagrant degens to exist in that they end up migrating there. You see it all the time when a city gets tough on homeless people a lot will just up and move to the closest city and exploit it and the process just continues off and on.

 I can guarantee 99% of homeless are junkies. Adequate addiction treatment and rehab is the only option. The 1% that are actually severely mentally ill to the point they can't be in a normal society have always and will always exist in large population, asylums were the only real answer.

 The solution here is clear: helicopter rides for the mayor and city council. They KNOW what they are doing, they get accosted by the same drug ferals as we do! They have needles in their yards, too!  Also, these drug zombies are violent and aggressive! They will get in your face and try to fight you, they will swing stuff at you like a weapon, and they are terrifying. Maybe they could work at the facilities they stay at. Some could be cooks and some could be matinee men and groundskeepers and laundry service, ect. They get paid by the state to live and work in a place they all can stay at. You wouldn't need real employees except for the ones that come by and help them find work idk.

I watched an interview with a city employee in San Francisco. He talked about how out of control the problem has become due to the massive increase in the total number of homeless. He said it isn't just drugs and mental illness, that people are falling on hard times and that they are seeing more and more homeless families and families living in vehicles. He said the city greatly underestimates the total number of homeless and that the real number is many times greater than they acknowledge.

America is crumbling into a 3rd world nation and the rate of change is accelerating. I used to live in Venezuela. The gulf between the rich and poor in America is looking more and more like Latin America every day.

I was born and raised in Seattle. It fills me with an indescribable rage to see what the parasites have done to my home. Seattle was one of the most beautiful and charming blue collar cities in the world. Then the socialists got hold of it.

I now feel I understand biblical evil after dealing with the socialists in that town and watching it all fall apart before fleeing a couple years ago. I would feel nothing but glee if the local politicians, local media and local gate keepers were all ruthlessly murdered.

Ask yourself why Seattle is so fucked yet the Jewish neighborhoods are absolutely pristine with no trash or homeless.

Texas is a different beast, in the 1990's Fort Worth was beginning to have a Blood/crips problem.

They hired a ex LAPD police chief and gave him free rein. What was happening was cops would show up to police negro neighborhoods and be met by gang members who'd tell em to fuck off.

The LAPD now FWPD chief gathered the biggest, meanest knuckle draggers, put them two to a squad car and assigned them to negro districts. The standing order? Someone tries to stop you, you beat their ass so bad you send them to the hospital.

To this day we do not have a real gang issue, closest thing is stop six, and the Mexicans, god bless them are running them out.

I moved to a rural community and I'll be goddamned if my reality didn't improve overnight after trying to stick it out there for many years. Took a long time to be able to sleep without police helicopters and wild niggers screaming in the distance.

That city is so beyond fucked and it gets worse every time I visit. It is like a bad acid trip now. I try to never go there. I had my Buffalo Bill wrangling wild niggers days back in my 20s and I have no interest now. But justice and law doesn't exist any longer in King County. You take your chances.

Just last week some big nigger hit my girlfriend in traffic, screamed at her and threatened her and then fled. My girlfriend called the police who said they couldn't do anything unless the nigger pulled a weapon. So a nigger screaming at and threatening a tiny woman in traffic while causing a traffic accident and fleeing goes by as just another day in Seattle.

God damn that city. It's like watching a family member be raped and killed by niggers under the control of Jews to see what is happening to Seattle.

 There's a couple hidden rich neighborhoods down near Lake Washington. I don't remember the name but my girlfriend who stills live there was driving me around town. All of a sudden we were in these pristine neighoods with no trash, perfect neighborhood management and seven figure plus homes. She's not redpilled but she just randomly mentions "This is where the Jews live". It's the area over by the 520 bridge.

It started primarily with the local media and Seattle trying to out-liberal SF and LA because of Seattle's small cock and cockphobia compared to those cities. This led to embracing more and more insane leftist and liberal policies leading to unironic communist and insane taxes being passed. This has led to Seattle and King County basically becoming liberal plantations for the big corps that control the area like Boeing, Microsoft and Amazon.

The real problem with homelessness is that the only real way to solve the problem is with a level of forcefulness that most citizens would find distasteful. I don't think mass murder of citizens in this country is ever going to fly, but it's very possible that forcing every single homeless person into sanitariums and drug clinics is the only way we'll ever see the end of the homeless problem.

 They aren't wrong about using medication in jails and prisons, it can work wonders and there's no reason for them not to but there is a lot of propaganda here. Somehow this over dramatic kike gets a pill that's supposed to help with withdrawals and he's crying even though he's been locked up so long he no longer has any use for it? Seems sketchy to me. Drug users getting moderate jail stays and pills to help with withdrawals is normal and usually effective, feeding them that shit after they get out is weird.

Seattlite here. Popular neighborhoods in decreasing order to homelessness:

1. Capitol Hill
2. Ballard
3. Belltown
4. Pioneer Square / Downtown
5. Chinatown
6. Fremont
7. U District
8. Redmond
9. Bellevue / Kirkland

With a one or two exceptions (Chinatown, Ballard), the least homeless are also the most boring.

 I should have taken a picture of this, because it was a meme turned reality incarnate. Unreal.
 I was working in a building in Bellevue for a day. I couldn't help but notice all the random Asians ('East Asian', Chinese/Korean/whatever is how we define it in Burgerland) coming in and out of the building. I tried to guess what their deal was, but what really struck me was that they were always middle aged parents with small children, not quite nigger tier, but I'd say just on the poorer side (maybe). Whatever, so I had to migrate between all the floors for the work I was doing. Once I got to the ground level, or possibly basement floor level (not even shitting you, hidden for (((some reason)))).
 I noticed the office for this place. The Asians were coming in and out of there, and I thought "what the fuck do Asians have to do with the Jewish Family center?"
 Do I need to keep going?

Micah 2 1-5

1Woe to those who devise iniquity,

And [a]work out evil on their beds!

At morning light they practice it,

Because it is in the power of their hand.

They covet fields and take them by violence,

Also houses, and seize them.

So they oppress a man and his house,

A man and his inheritance.

3 Therefore thus says the Lord:

"Behold, against this family I am devising disaster,
From which you cannot remove your necks;
Nor shall you walk haughtily,
For this is an evil time.

In that day one shall take up a proverb against you,
And lament with a bitter lamentation, saying:
'We are utterly destroyed!
He has changed the [b]heritage of my people;
How He has removed it from me!
To [c]a turncoat He has divided our fields.' "

Therefore you will have no [d]one to determine boundaries by lot
In the assembly of the Lord.

Beware.

it's true though. The progressives don't legitimately have compassion for the people living on the street. Homeless, along with blacks, gays, muslims etc. are just tools to them, deep down many know their system doesn't work and actually hurts these people. Their massive egos prevent them from admitting that their ideology is dysfunctional and destructive. They would, and are, let a city burn before admitting the truth-that they are idiotic zealots for a failed cause.

You're thinking of a voluntary sober living facility.

The addict homeless need a forced sober living facility. Something like a low security prison where they're forced to get clean for a year or two then released.

Obviously voluntary stuff isn't going to work. We need actual mental hospitals / substance addiction hospitals that can deal with these people and we need the ability to incarcerate them there til they get better. If they ever get better.
